

HOME MOVIE DAY BINGO

Why Home Movie Day Bingo? What's a better way to get people interested in watching home movies than to make it a friendly competition? Playing Home Movie Day Bingo gets people involved in watching for details in the films – how we used to look, what we used to do, etc. Also, some of the items on the cards refer to specific people (like relatives), so there may be questions that help get people talking about the film. At the very least, it's a fun way to get people to participate in the event.

What is this document? This is a PDF document that contains instructions, more than 100 unique bingo cards and some blank cards at the end (if you want to make your own). There is also a Customizable Word version available. Print out as many cards as you like. Each card is one letter-size piece of paper. You could copy general Home Movie Day information on the other side of each card.

How to play? Home Movie Day Bingo is similar to Travel Bingo (or Buzzword Bingo). Each player gets a unique Bingo card. On each card are 5 columns of items – things or activities that you would see in an average home movie (to make it easier, each column has specific types of items – People, Places, Things, Activities, What Someone is Wearing). Whenever a player sees an item on their card in the home movie they are watching, they mark it on their card. Cards can be marked permanently with Bingo markers, pencils, pens or crayons or you can put temporary markers on the cards (pennies, poker chips, bingo chips, pieces of paper). The first person that gets five-in-a-row across, down, or diagonally across the card yells out “Bingo!” You can stop the projector if you wish, or keep it rolling. The winner has to call out and confirm what items they saw in the films.

Prizes? If you have a winner, you might want to have a prize – maybe little things like t-shirts, stickers, goofy things you've found at a thrift or dollar store, some little craft items, etc. Or if you have sponsorship, maybe gift certificates for whatever service the sponsor offers (film transfer work, coffee, etc.). Or you can just make a paper crown for the winner to wear. Be creative.

Most important! This should be fun for you and for your players. You don't have to play it with every single film that you show – especially if you think it might be distracting or not appropriate for the film being shown. You might want to plan on playing it once an hour or only during specific films or times.

Ideas? Any ideas on how to improve this for future HMDs? Give me a holler at Skip Elsheimer (skip@avgeeks.com). Thanks to Julie Lofthouse, Germaine Fodor, Marsha and Devin Orgeron and the Elsheimer family for helping with this...
