

Please be careful with your films!

Most home movies are one-of-a-kind recordings—once the original is gone, there is usually no back-up copy. Home Movie Day organizers and volunteers will give their best estimate of films' condition, and we will handle your films with the greatest possible care. However, we cannot be responsible for damage or loss due to age/physical deterioration, theft, improper handling, faulty equipment, spilled beverages, or other mishaps anywhere on this site. We ask that you be as cautious around other people's films as you would be with your own.

Please check to make sure you have your personal effects and all films you've brought with you before you leave, too!
